

Question of the Week

The last decade or so has seen an alarming increase in the number of people jumping off bridges and out of planes. Are these extreme athletes searching for an adrenaline rush or do they simply have a death wish? These thrill-seekers argue that you could be hit by a car while crossing the street. Now, we're not asking you to tie a big rubber band to your feet and jump off a bridge, we just want to know ...

Which activity is the most dangerous?

Of 2027 votes so far...

skydiving	19%
whitewater rafting	7%
mountain climbing	20%
jogging	9%
bungee jumping	19%
hunting	14%
snowboarding	3%
skateboarding	4%

Click here to see past surveys.
Enjoy giving your opinion? Click here.

Related Facts:

Bungee jumping was inspired by the vine jumpers of Pentecost Island in Vanuatu. It is understood to be both a rite of passage into manhood, and a fertility rite performed to ensure a good yam harvest.

The world's first parachute jump was made on October 22, 1797.

The first snowboard-like invention was a plank of plywood that secured to the rider's feet with a length of clothesline and some horse reins.

Join the NFO panel and let your voice be heard! Click here.