How to Access Moodle

Everything you need for this class (except for the book, professor and myself) is on the Moodle course system.

It is safe to say that one cannot pass this class without using Moodle so let’s make sure you know how to use it.

Finding your Moodle ID

You will be using a five digit number (#####) as your username. There are two ways to get this number:

- Go to the lab and at the MacOS X login screen, enter guest as the username and guest as the password. Once you are logged in, follow the on-screen instructions.
- From home, browse to http://moodle.stat.ucla.edu. The following screen appears:

Find the box labeled Welcome to Fall 2008 (it might still say Welcome to Summer 2008 but whatever) and click on the link labeled Account Lookup page. The following screen will appear:

Enter your UID and hit the Submit button.
The following screen appears:

Having Trouble Logging In? System Not Finding You?

If you are not yet enrolled, Moodle will not be able to create a Moodle ID for you. Please enroll ASAP.

If you are having trouble logging in and you are enrolled in the class, please email support@stat.ucla.edu. Make sure to include your name, UID, lecture and section so they can fix the problem.
